

Berlin Coffee Tables - stylish minimalism inspired from a creative metropolis

The Berlin coffee table was designed with Bolia's DNA in mind. The German duo, Sebastian Klarhoefer and Peter Hertel sought to achieve a clean, reduced design that was versatile in its use and positioning in the space but distinctive in its visual simplicity.

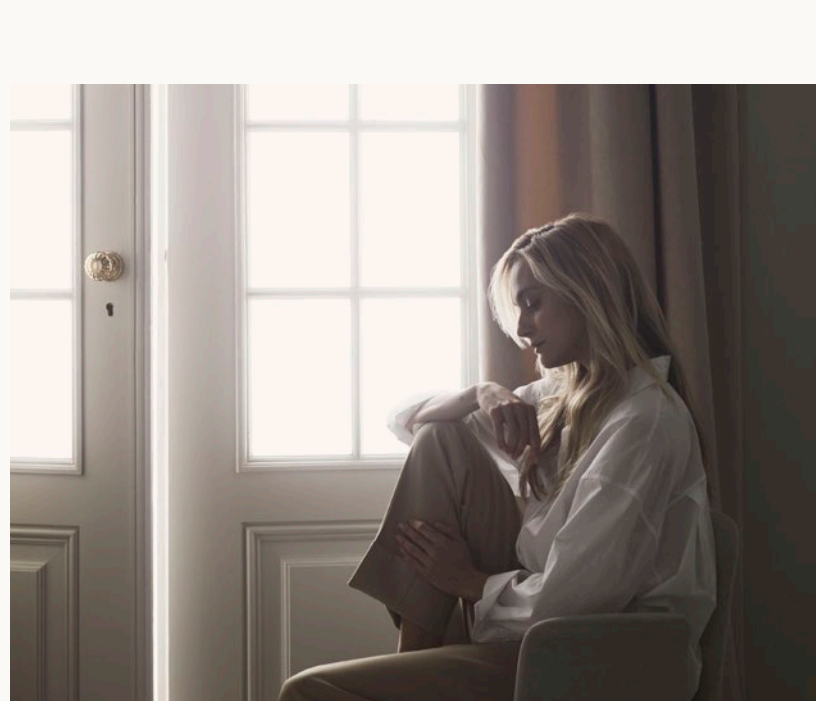

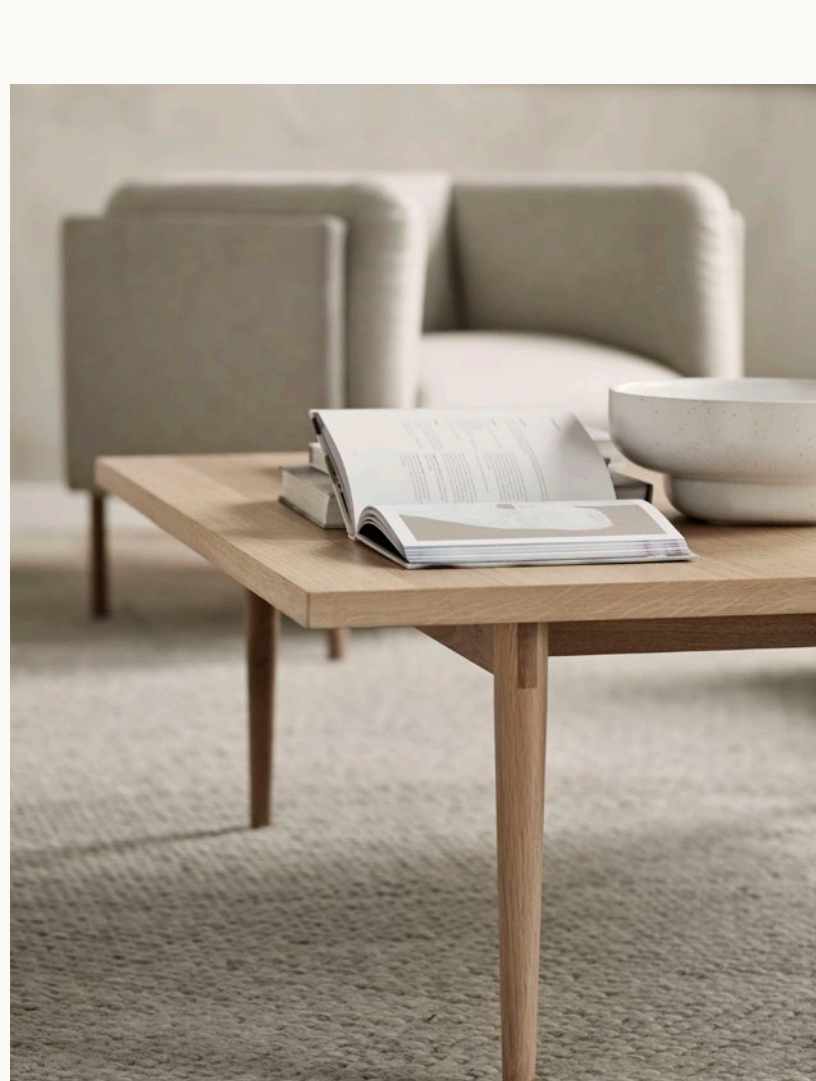

The Berlin coffee table combines urban inspirations with an expression of mid-20th century design classics. "It is the combination of many elements from two worlds that allows us to transfer the aesthetic qualities of the past into a contemporary furniture, perfectly adapted to our current lifestyles", explain the designers, Sebastian Klarhoefer and Peter Hertel. The duo combines the eclectic culture of Berlin's coffee shops, bars and restaurants with the concept of a relaxing moment, with the coffee table as the centerpiece.

A new addition

The Berlin collection was born with the bench of the same name, and this year it includes this new coffee table. This table is available in two dimensions, 120 x 60 x H42 cm or 110 x 110 x H42 cm, to accommodate various living spaces. Minimalist, with a subtle elegance, it adapts easily to many home styles. The Berlin coffee table is the result of meticulous and solid woodworking, which is FSC® certified (FSC® C165134).

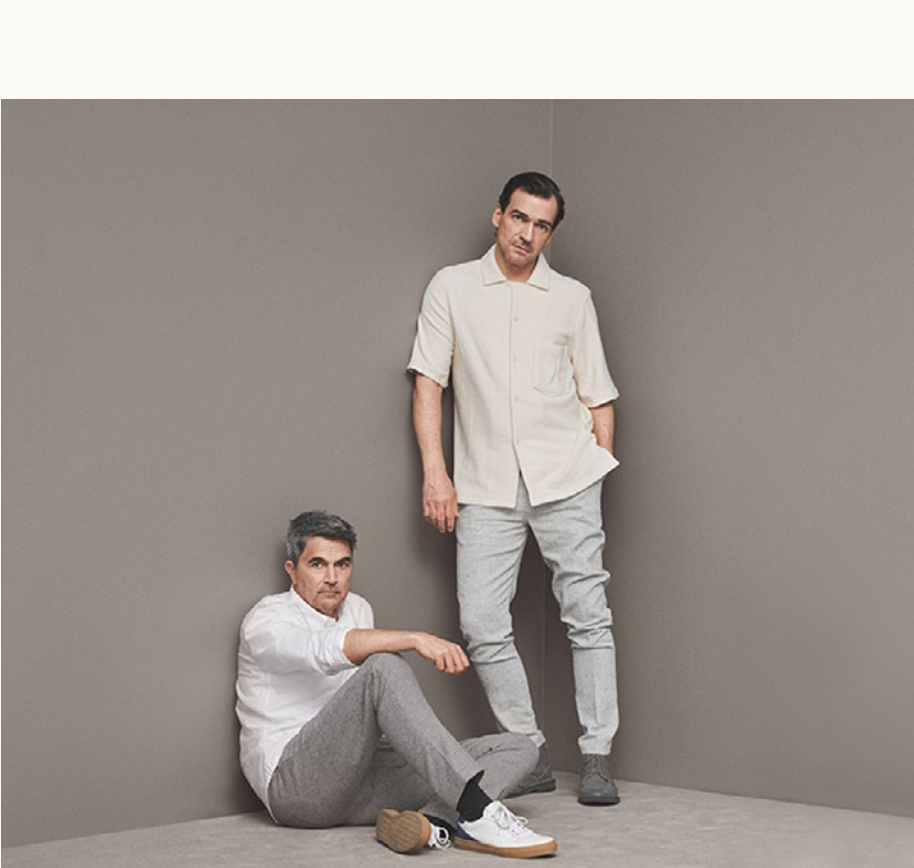

Visible tenon joints highlight the design heritage from which it originated, while its sleek frames add a modern expression. The sophisticated touch of this piece comes from traditional manufacturing techniques and artisanal details that bring the product and its Scandinavian heritage to life.

Hertel & Klarhoefer

Berlin, the name of a series, but also an everlasting source of inspiration for its designers, Sebastian Klarhoefer and Peter Hertel. The German studio is above all inspired by the material nature of things: everything starts from a conceptual idea, realized as soon as possible by the use of materials and prototypes on a 1:1 scale. Their style is delicate and elegant, with a touch of boldness, and made cosy by the frequent use of wood, all species included.
