

Spotlight on the lighting news from Bolia

Bolia believes that good design is not only what we see, but also what we feel. Bolia's AW21 collection is directly inspired by nature as it appears in this transitional season between warm summer and cold winter - soft and dreamy. The Aluna and Campa lamp series demonstrate this very well, being two soothing and luminous collections.

The AW21 collection is inspired by Scandinavian nature, its changing seasons and its calm, earthy colors. Each room, whether it's for the living room, the bedroom, the hallway or professional spaces, is designed to create a calm and luxurious atmosphere. Thus, in the same spirit, the Campa and Aluna lamps are part of your daily life in a natural way.

Campa Series

The first ones, from the Campa series designed by Spant Studio, each have a characteristic shape that can be found on all the models, whether they are table lamps, floor lamps or hanging lamps. They are directly inspired by the intention to create a design without too many details, but elegant. The opal glass of the lampshade ensures a softening effect. The light source is therefore never too sharp and is diffused delicately, reflecting downwards, upwards but also through the opaline glass.

To fit all interiors, Campa lamps can be customized: it is possible to choose the color of the base, brass plated steel for a golden look or black powder coated steel for a more sober and discreet look. The lampshade remains pure white with its straight grooves, perfectly matching the curves, ideal for illuminating the spaces it will decorate. The top of the table or floor lamp can be tilted, which allows the light to be distributed in the right place. To suit all interiors, the Campa hanging lamp is available in two different sizes: 27 or 35 cm diameter.

Aluna Series

The Aluna lamp is a table lamp, designed by Quaglio Simonelli. Seductive in its subtle interplay of lines, asymmetry and balance, Aluna's shade is deliberately positioned so that it almost seems to float and partially detach from the base. The tiltable design gives even more functionality to this design. Both discreet and unusual, almost playful, the Aluna lamp is available in three different colors, all three made of steel: brass plated, cream powder-coated or black powder-coated.

In the image of the Bolia brand universe and in the respect of the Scandinavian design, the lamps of the Campa series and the Aluna lamp are refined, elegant and not overstated. They invite themselves into any space, drawing their energy from the room in which they are placed. No matter what color they are, brass, black or cream, each one of them illuminates a room, by its function but also thanks to its exceptional design. A bedroom, an office, a living room and even a reading corner can be decorated with a Campa or Aluna lamp.
