

Bolia showcases natural materials

With the new AW21 collection, Bolia explores more than ever the intrinsic possibilities of natural materials. A chair made of recycled plastic (Seed); home accessories in ceramic or hand-structured, sandblasted and toned glass for unique textures; FSC®-certified (FSC® C165124) solid oak, ash and walnut furniture frames...

All leathers are certified sustainable and traceable, of the highest quality in the world, guaranteeing transparency and animal welfare. The rugs are natural and certified Care & Fair. Brass, untreated steel and natural stones such as marble, Italian travertine or polished concrete are also emerging. And with natural materials such as hemp, cork or braided paper, Bolia remains timeless and offers pieces that clearly reflect the brand's Scandinavian heritage.

Upholstery fabrics are no exception: always STANDARD 100 by OEKO-TEX® certified, the line has been expanded with two new fabrics, Revi and Vilme. Revi is made from 100% recycled materials from the sea, lakes and beaches, while Vilme is a soft rustic fabric made in Italy from a blend of sustainable polyamide and natural fibers of linen, cotton and viscose.
