

Stay wooden chairs Essential seating

Andreas Lund has designed a series of flat packed separable chairs for Bolia, a reference to the Danish tradition of furniture design. When you approach the Stay chair, you immediately see the essential beauty of the wood it's made of. This ultimate natural material, combined with a durable, separable construction, guarantees a lasting lifespan for these chairs.

Bolia now introduces the Stay chairs, designed by the Danish designer Andreas Lund. Their classic style comes as much from their basic structure as from their natural wood material, which also gives them a lasting durability. "I would say that the shape of the seat, and the way it is wrapped by the legs, is the most important aspect of the chair. Stay has a soft character, its construction is seamless, which makes its expression fully honest", explains Andreas Lund.

Scandinavian design

Made of oak wood, Stay is very Scandinavian in its design. Its natural material is enhanced by a work inspired by the old traditional Scandinavian woodwork: "Woodworking has always been part of human life. Woodwork thus brings people a sense of calm and security. The chair is made of this single material, which gives it harmony and homogeneity", the designer adds.

Stay is also distinguished by its sustainable approach, where each chair is made from FSC™-certified wood, assembled with only four screws and shipped flat packed, which reduces emissions during transport. Its parts can also be replaced and recycled over time, adding years to the design's lifespan, while manifesting the Bolia brand's sustainable ambitions. (FSC®-C165134)
