

A calm, aesthetic interior with new Bolia accessories

This autumn, Bolia presents a series of new home accessories, including Torch vases, Elope mirrors and Ripple mirrors in new sizes. Inspired by nature and made in a durable and artisanal way, these new pieces will bring a new life to the home.

Elope Mirror

Designed by Studio Noddebo, the three Elope mirrors are inspired by the Danish archipelago, consisting of more than 400 islands. The diversity of these is reflected in the variations in shape of the three mirrors, with their rounded and organic contours. Their FSC®-certified (FSC® C165134) oak frames cut into their shapes while their reflective surfaces brighten any room.

Ripple Mirror

Bolia expands the Ripple mirror series with new sizes. Designed by Büro Famos and known for their architectural gaze, they are inspired by the semi-circular arched windows of Romanesque buildings, to which they add an elegant modern touch. Very minimalist, they are made up of an almost invisible frame that increases their luminous potential tenfold. Ripple mirrors are designed to function as independent standalone pieces, or as a creative row of reflective mirrors.

Torch Vase

Each Torch vase is shaped to create a generous sculptural and architectural landscape of flowers and pots. New creation of the German studio Büro Famos, these stoneware vases sublimates the nature they shelter, thanks to their tactile and organic surface. They are inspired by the decorative torches used in ancient times, which they transform into modern pieces with light colours. Torch vases come in a variety of colours and expressions to suit any interior.
