

Bolia reveals a new store concept in Holmen, Copenhagen

On March 30th, Bolia opened a brand-new flagship store in Copenhagen's Holmen district. This new design universe brings their Scandinavian design heritage to the absolute forefront, creating an inspiring space for creativity to flow freely. Whether the visitor is looking for inspiration for their private home or a professional space, or anywhere in between, the new location showcases a wide variety of possibilities - in an incredible, historical setting.

82 stores spread across Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Germany, the Netherlands, Switzerland, Belgium, Austria, Spain, France, Luxembourg, and Singapore; Bolia continues to expand at a fast pace. And on March 30th, Bolia opened a brand-new design universe in Denmark, the country where it all began more than 20 years ago.

The company is ready to welcome its new flagship store in the historical premises of Kuglegården, in the district of Holmen in the heart of Copenhagen. One of the listed buildings will be the setting for Bolia's largest store to date, which will cover more than 1,300 m². Big antique windows will bring beautiful natural light to the space and highlight every well-kept architectural detail. With great respect for Danish navy history, Bolia has made the sea arsenal their new home. Built in 1741, the building has been carefully restored to house the design brand, and now makes the perfect setting for their Scandinavian design universe to unfold.

The new flagship store concept is designed to inspire and to showcase solutions for both new ways of living and new ways of working. Bolia will therefore also present the new Professional Collection and stunning solutions for offices, hotels, restaurants and for working at home. Here, you will find everything you need for creating beautiful spaces and liberating creativity, whether you are an interior designer, architect, business owner, content creator or simply just love interior design. Everyone is welcome.

This new store concept will be true to the calm, inspirational experiences that the Bolia brand and collection is known for. At Bolia, the store is a world of its own, always built as a tribute to its local area. A space where the busy outside world comes to a peaceful standstill, while inspiration flows freely, and a brilliant cup of coffee is served. A complete store experience that speaks to all your senses with impressions of scent, music, taste, beauty, and perhaps most importantly, touch. A world built on creativity, durability, and craftsmanship – with designs created in only the best materials, nature has to offer.
